May her friends still be many...

Kathy Kilpatrick with Charlie Gowans-Eglinton at the KS4 Celebration Evening

Celebration Time !

We were excited to welcome back to the school fashion editor, journalist and podcaster, Charlie Gowans-Eglinton to help our Year 12 students celebrate their fantastic GCSE results at the KS4 Celebration Evening in November.

Charlie who was at Tiffin Girls' from 1998-2005 addressed the 180 students and their parents, together with the staff, before handing out the certificates and awards.

A message from Ian Keary:

"You can't be what you can't see."
Marian Wright Edelman

This was the message I spoke to our students, staff and parents about at the beginning of term, reflecting on the female role models who show women what they can be and inspire our students to believe that they can be anything and achieve anything they want to.

You provide this inspiration for our students and we have been especially grateful to our alumnae who have spoken at our celebration evenings and given career advice in our series of TiffinTalks so they can see what they can be.

We look forward to welcoming more of you back to the school and to growing this network of amazing alumnae.

Wishing you all happiness and joy this winter time and a new year that is full of possibility and hope.

Frances Andrew (Lally) steps down as Chair of TOGA

With a fantastic promotion to be Head of the Computing Department at Nonsuch School for Girls, and with all the additional work that brings together with bringing up a young family, we were not surprised to hear that Frances has sadly decided to give up being Chair of TOGA, a position she has held so brilliantly for so many years.

As both a former student and a former member of staff at The Tiffin Girls' School, as well as the Chair of the TOGA committee, Frances is a fount of knowledge about the school. She has organised several biannual school reunions, created a Tiffin Old Girls' Association website, organised merchandise to be produced and sold, managed data protection and GDPR and kept Tiffin Old Girls informed and connected through social media and newsletters. She has also overseen the merge of the Old Girls' Association with the School alumnae network and ensured a seamless transition.

It goes without saying that Frances will be greatly missed, though we hope we will continue to see her at many school events in the future.

THANK YOU, FRANCES!

Join the TOGA Committee

We would love to welcome new members to the TOGA committee. The committee aims to meet 2-3 times a year – either online or in person at the school - and helps organise reunions and other networking events, as well as fundraising activities in connection with the school. We are particularly hoping to organise more activities for our recent leavers so if you have ideas for that, please do join us.

If you would like to come along to the next meeting to find out what we do, please email Naia Edwards: alumnae@tiffingirls.org.

Current committee:

Karen Brickley (nee Dalby)	1970 - 1977
Anglela Calder (nee Lim)	1990 - 1997
Karen Carman (nee Walker)	1982 - 1987
Barbara Lewis (nee Stewart)	1967 - 1973
Louise Mason (nee Gu)	2002 - 2004
Aarthee Parimelalaghan	2013 - 2020

The TOGA Award for Mentoring

The TOGA award for Mentoring younger students, first presented in 2018, is given to a student who demonstrates through helping others the true spirit of the Tiffin Girl.

This year, the award was given to Adele Abasov, who ran super-curricular psychology mentoring.

A final word from Frances Andrew

The Christmas season is a time when we take comfort in traditions whatever they may be. It's an opportunity to meet up with old friends and enjoy shared memories. Then comes the new year and with it we take stock of what we have achieved and what we hope to achieve in the future.

In the Christmas spirit, I look back and am very glad to be part of this extended family: the friends I made at school who are now godparents to my children: Alex and Charlotte, the school staff who always make TOGA work easy: Ian, Naia, Katie and Francesca, and the rest of the committee to whom I am always thankful for their friendship, guidance, camaraderie and patience: Karen, Barbara, Angela, Karen, Catherine, Petra, Marion and Margaret, and more recently, Emma, Aarthee and Louise.

Being part of the committee gives opportunities to revisit school and celebrate the achievements of new and old alumnae. When I became chair about five or six years ago it was at a time when the future of TOGA was unclear. With a dwindling membership we had to make some drastic changes to how we operated and we dragged ourselves into the 21st century. Thankfully, it paid off as we have gone from around 100 members in total to over 1000 members in the Facebook group alone.

However, as a new year begins and I get to grips with a new role as Head of Computer Science in a similar selective girls' school, I find it is necessary to step down as chair of TOGA so that those who can are able to give the time and attention needed to keep the alumnae a close knit community.

I hope that at some point you will be in a position to join the committee, volunteer for one off things or attend an event in school. If you are further afield than the reach of the River Thames, send us your memories to keep the Christmas spirit burning in all our hearts. For we are Tiffin Girls: we should dare to wear the badge with pride in those who follow in our footsteps, and in deference to those who paved the cobblestone streets before us.

I wish you all a warm and merry Christmas and look forward to meeting again soon.

Finding friends and the magic of number

The Christmas term is always a busy one as we begin another school year and welcome the new Year 7 students as they start on their 7-year journey at The Tiffin Girls' School.

According to various surveys, the number 7 is the world's favourite number. As it happens, 7,000 is also the approximate number of living alumnae who have been educated at The Tiffin Girls' School! Not a large number out of a world population of over 7 billion people but proving that it is a small world, by coincidence I was lucky enough to bump into one TOG, Sarah Collett (class of 2005) at Pisa airport at the end of half term.

We got chatting as our planes were delayed and discovered the Tiffin Girls' connection. Sarah, now a drama teacher at St Catherine's school in Twickenham, remembered her school days with great affection and it was a joy to hear her reminisce.

We are currently only in touch with about one seventh of our alumnae and would love to build the network further. Please do spread the word, get in touch or come and visit. We would love to see you.

Year 8 student wins Highly Commended prize at the Young Geographer of the year Awards

The Royal Geographical Society (RGS), with the Institute of British Geographers (IBG), has announced the winning students of 'Young Geographer of the Year'.

The annual competition encourages students to engage with geographical issues and receives hundreds of entries from students in the UK and internationally.

In this year's competition students were invited to explore the question 'Where, how and why?' in the context of where they want to travel to, how they would get there, and why they want to travel there.

Very many congratulations to our Year 8 student for her Highly Commended Award in the KS3 category.

Eco Week 2022

To mark Eco Week, an event within the school calendar which has grown year on year, students made miniature yellow skips filled with household items that they created using recycled materials and displayed on 8 plinths in the school foyer. A visual commentary on the waste that each household produces, the students in Year 8 expressed their concern over the many things that end up in landfill each year.

Part of the week's activities involved our eco representatives attending an Eco conference at Richard Challoner School where they worked with other schools to share knowledge and formulate plans about how they could act locally.

We will be holding an Eco conference for Primary schools on Tuesday 7 February. If anyone is involved in any projects that students could get involved with, or can provide a talk on something targeted at that age group, please get in touch with Emma Kilburn: e.kilburn@tiffingirls.org

SCHOOL NEWS

Black History Month

As part of our Black History Month celebrations, we welcomed back two of our recent alumnae, who joined us online for a presentation on the impact that key Black historical figures have had on modern Britain.

Nyasha told us about Dr Harold Moody (1882 – 1947), a doctor who was born in Jamaica and travelled to England to study. Refused permission to work in a hospital due to the colour of his skin, he set up his own GP practice, in which he treated many poor people who would otherwise have been unable to access medical help.

Oyin talked to us about Paul Stephenson. He organised the Bristol Bus Boycott, campaigning against the company who would not employ Black or Asian workers on its buses. His campaign eventually led to a change in the law.

It was so interesting to learn about both of these figures, and also to hear about the views and experiences of two of our former students, both of whom were instrumental in the creation of our annual Black History Month celebrations.

Pink Week

Led by Year 11, the School raised a fantastic £2,843.66 for Breast Cancer UK.

They demonstrated great sales techniques raising money through multifarious initiatives:
painted nails, personalised t-shirts, a photo booth, lots of baking and an excessive amount of sweets (Pink & Mix), culminating in the now famous pink parade.

'Party Animal'

In our last edition we proudly announced that the artistic work of Year 13 student, Katie, had been selected to be exhibited in this year's Summer Exhibition at the Royal Academy of the Arts.

Her work, a sculpture of Boris Johnson entitled 'Party Animal', was part of the Young Artists exhibition throughout July and August. Due to exam board restrictions we were unable to share images of the piece in public but, as this timeframe has now passed, we are delighted to share an image of her impressive piece here now.

SCHOOL NEWS

The Queen Celebrated

Term had only just begun when the sad news was announced that the Queen had died. The school community paid its respects via an online whole school assembly and held a minute's silence. It was an opportunity to recognise the extraordinary service The Queen provided this nation, remaining steadfast and loyal throughout her 70 year reign, and how she acted with dignity, decency and tolerance.

The school also held a display of objects, works of art, poems and other artefacts that reflect her seven decades of service and duty. Among them were Ms. Philips' mugs from the silver jubilee, and Mrs. Urquhart's tea set from the coronation in 1953.

Some students shared letters that either they or members of their families received from the Queen, and there were many touching poems, posters, and art works, which reflected the Queen's importance in the lives of members of our school community.

The School Fair

The annual Christmas Fair organised by the PSA to raise money for the school was a great success.

TOGA committee members Karen Brickley and Karen Carman manned the alumnae stall. The new merchandise including the wooden and slate coasters and keyrings with the old and new school logo were popular. The Christmas baubles were a hit too!

To order some merchandise, contact n.edwards@tiffingirls.org

THE SPORTS CENTRE IS OPEN!

The official opening of our new Tiffin Girls' Sports Centre was held in September and was a very special event. It was attended by representatives of the PSA, a range of parents, governors, alumnae, former staff and headteachers, representatives of the architects and construction companies involved in the design and build of the centre, and current staff and students.

Visitors were able to see the sports centre in use for the first time, as a number of our students put on displays of sports including badminton and volleyball, which visitors could watch from the viewing gallery.

Our guest of honour was alumna Sue Smith MBE, one of our three patrons of the sports fundraising campaign, who is the former Chair of Swim England and who has worked in Local Government Facilities and Leisure Management.

Both she and Mr Keary talked about the transformational power of sport, its importance for wellbeing and health, and the wide range of opportunities it can afford students. The sports centre is a wonderful facility that will benefit our current students, large numbers of the local community, and future generations of Tiffin girls, and which will enable the PE department to continue to expand the range of sports and activities they offer students, with facilities that reflect the high quality of their provision.

Campaign Patron and alumna, Sue Smith MBE joined Ian Keary to formally open the Sports Centre

The Sports Centre was initially made possible by our successful bid for funding from the government. However, the project would never have come to fruition without the generous support of the school community. The Support Tiffin Girls' School Company, which oversees the funds generated by monthly parental donations, made a significant contribution to the project, as did the PSA, who undertook a whole range of fundraising activities to support the build and the provision of equipment to go in it. A number of parents and alumnae made individual and very generous donations, guests at our Fundraising dinner raised valuable funds, and parents, alumnae and students have all contributed to the range of original and fun events that have been organised over the last few years.

Thank you again to everyone who has supported this project and helped make our amazing new Sports Centre a reality.

The School is delighted to share the Sports Centre and other facilities with the wider community. Facilities include 4 netball/tennis courts, astropitch, athletics field, 2 gyms (for martial arts, gymnastics, dance, yoga or child's party), hall, drama studio and music suite.

If you are interested in hiring any of these as a single booking, alumnae are entitled to a 25% discount. You can find out more here: facilities.tiffingirls.org

'Tiffin Girls can achieve anything!'

Former students inspire success at Celebration Evenings

Such were the words of Charlie Gowans-Eglinton (1998-2006) as she joined us in November for the KS4 Celebration Event where students collected their GCSE certificates. She added: "The last time I was in this Hall, 'Last Christmas' was playing by Wham!".

It was the first time she had been back to the school since she left over 15 years ago. Quite a lot has changed, she recalls. "There were huts on the front field then," (she was at the school when the fire happened), "and the art room was dilapidated.

In those days, we didn't have a celebration evening to recognise everyone's achievements – so this is my first time!" she told the students.

After her A levels at Tiffin Girls', Charlie went to Central Saint Martins, "almost by mistake. The deadline to apply for art school was later than university, so that's the real reason I went. It always felt like everyone else knew what they wanted to do, but I wasn't sure." Luckily, Charlie's interest in writing about fashion grew as she studied fashion communication and has led to a highly successful career as a freelance journalist. She has worked as fashion editor for The Times, been senior fashion editor for the Daily Telegraph and Grazia magazine. She now also has a highly popular Podcast, The Wingwoman.

Her advice to students was not to worry if you don't know what to do. "Being a Tiffin girl, you can achieve anything and you'll be ok."

If you were unable to attend the Celebration Evening and you haven't yet collected your A-Level certificates, please get in touch with Miss Urquhart, s.urquhart@tiffingirls.org, to arrange collection.

Author Zohra Nabi attends Key Stage 5 Celebration Evening

The Class of 2022 recent leavers returned for their Celebration Evening in December to collect their A level certificates. The A level results this year were phenomenal: 56.6% received an A* and 87.5% received A*-A so there was a lot to celebrate, particularly as this was the cohort that didn't sit GCSEs. "It is a wonderful finale to their time at the school," said Headteacher, Mr Keary, "This year group has demonstrated great resilience and commitment to their studies throughout an unprecedented two years and fully deserve the wonderful outcomes."

Our alumnae guest speaker was Zohra Nabi who, at age 24, has a lot to celebrate herself. She has just had her first book accepted by publishers Simon & Schuster Children's Books as part of a two book deal. "The Kingdom Over the sea," is a "spine-tingling, unputdownable magical adventure" for middle-grade readers, which will come out in Spring 2023.

Set in a lavish world of sorceresses, alchemists, jinn and flying carpets, this is an epic story of a girl raised in our world discovering her true magical identity and her place in a land where magic has been banned. The novel explores themes of identity, immigration and displacement inspired by the experiences of Nabi's family in Kashmir. Zohra grew up inventing stories for her two younger sisters. She studied law at Cambridge and Oxford universities but secretly dreamed of being an author. Now she lives in London and is fulfilling her dream.

ALUMNAE NEWS

Karen Carman writes about Class of 1982 Reunion

In the summer, several of the '82 joiners had a get-together at 'The Boaters' Inn' in Kingston. The event had been swiftly arranged due to one of us who lives abroad being back in the UK. It was with some trepidation that most of us approached the pub on a sunny afternoon.

"Will I recognise anyone?", "What will I talk about?", "How quickly can I make my escape if I don't fit in?" were questions that we admitted to later on.

We need not have worried. Within seconds of walking in we immediately spotted our fellow Old Girls, and within a few minutes we had re-introduced ourselves and the reminiscences started pouring out and the laughter increased. It was amazing what we had forgotten about until someone jogged our memories and I'm surprised we did any learning at school at all judging by some of the stories.

The afternoon flew by and most of us stayed way longer than we had expected to as we were having such a nice time. We found out that we had all taken very different paths in life, but the common thread was that we were forging our own paths in our own way, with the 'can do' attitude that had been instilled in us so many years ago still having an impact.

We finished the evening agreeing that "we must do this again!" and I am sure we would have broken out into the school song if we hadn't have been worried about clearing the pub. "Golden Webs" as the song says!

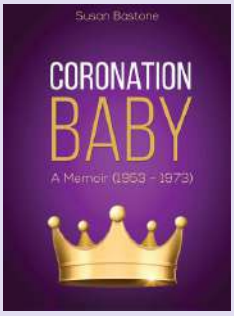
Ingrid Oliver marries author and Pointless star, Richard Osman

Ingrid Oliver, who attended Tiffin Girls' between 1988 – 1995 is an actress and comedian, best known for her role as Petronella Osgood in Doctor Who. At school she was friends with Lorna Watson and together they became a comedy double act, Watson and Oliver, taking sell-out shows to Edinburgh Fringe Festival in 2006-2007. Ingrid met Richard Osman when she appeared on his game show House of Games in 2020 in which four celebrities compete with each other in a series of daily challenges.

Coronation Baby – A memoir (1953 – 1973) by Susan Bastone covering her years at The Tiffin Girls' School

Born within weeks of Queen Elizabeth's II's coronation, Susie Bastone, nee Pegg joined The Tiffin Girls' School in 1964. She has written a memoir spanning the first twenty years of her life which includes a fascinating account of her time at the school as well as an acutely observed social history of Kingston and the local area. Here is an extract:

"Almost the first thing we were told by the older girls on arrival at the school was how to get a hopscotch pitch for break! Hopscotch was more than a passion; it was the most important part of life for the 1st and 2nd year girls. Our school was built in a rectangle, with a quad in the middle (out of bounds until the 5th year). All round the outside of the school were chalked hopscotch pitches, meaning around 30 pairs of girls could play at the same time. The fact that there were 90 girls in each year meant that only one third would get a pitch so all sorts of planning went into make sure that you were as near to an outside door as possible before the morning or lunch break. As we got older, we would even bribe a younger or less interested girl with a lesson next to a door, to 'hold a pitch for us.' The bribe would inevitable be a bun."



Now a mother and grandmother, Sue lives in Wiltshire with her husband "and an awful lot of books".

ALUMNAE SPOTLIGHT

Profiles

In November, we posted on the alumnae Facebook page and Instagram that we needed volunteers to give talks about their careers to current students and recent leavers.

There was a fantastic response from alumnae in a wide range of careers offering to help. We spoke to two of them. Here are the interviews.

Alice Grant

Alice Grant (1998 - 2005)

How to be responsible for £1billion a year by the age of 24 and about how you have the power to make positive change in your life

Last year Alice Grant set up her own management consultancy company, Lightspeed Consulting Inc. Previously she had worked at The Boston Consulting Group and at Marks & Spencer where she managed £1billion a year by the age of 24. Not living far away from the school, Alice came in for a chat.

In our interview she talks about her school days, being strategic and asking help from the right people, playing to your strengths, working hard and taking considered risks.

Phoebe Rudd (2007-2014)

Co-founder of the UK's fastest growing food, drink, lifestyle and travel magazine – thesaucemag.com, not to mention former Miss England, Phoebe Rudd has just been listed as Restaurant Marketer and Innovator's "30 under 30" winner.

Here she talks about her memories of school and reflects upon her career to date. She tells us about the impact Tiffin Girls' has had on her life, how think outside the box when pursuing your career goals and why reaching out for help or advice can grow relationships and valuable connections.

TiffinTalks - Finance and Technology

As part of our careers programme, we invite speakers from our talented professional alumnae community to talk to our students about their careers. This term we have held two Tiffin Talks. In October more than 100 students tuned in to hear Suzi Russell-Gilford (class of 1996) and Jo Filbin (class of 2000) talk about their careers in Finance and Technology.

Suzi Russell-Gilford Class of 1996

Suzi is a Partner at Ernst & Young and Global Microsoft alliance leader for Tax.

She runs the global tax go-to-market relationship with Microsoft. Having spent 25 plus years working with the Big Four in tax, Suzi has always had a passion for using technology to ease the complexity of global tax compliance and she is passionate about tax being core to a healthier planet.

Earlier this year she recorded an interview on Women in Tech for International Women's Day with the Chief Digital Officer of Microsoft. Suzi is based in California.

Jo Filbin Class of 2000

Jo is co-founder and COO of Globacap, a fintech startup company using blockchain to revolutionise how companies manage their shareholders and funding.

She spent 7 years working in Transaction Services with KPMG, followed by 6 years in various FTSE 100 and large private companies working in and leading Group transformation teams.

In 2020, Jo was recognised as UK Fintech Rising Star of the year and recently featured in the Exceptional Female Role Model series on LinkedIn. She works from her home in the Swiss Alps!

TiffinTalks - Medicine

Dr Brintha Sivajee Class of 2005

Brintha is a GP who has been qualified for 11 years. She trained at St Richard's Hospital in Chichester, Epsom and St Helier University Hospitals and Kingston Hospital and has worked at Seymour House Surgery in Richmond for the past 6 years.

She has just taken on new roles as the clinical lead for South West London for the targeted lung checks and the Richmond and Kingston clinical lead for estates.

Dr Sahana Gnanasampanthan Class of 2013

Sahana left Tiffin Girls' in 2013 and studied medicine at University College London (UCL). She graduated in 2019 with a certificate of merit in clinical practice, and a first class intercalated BSc in neuroscience. She completed her foundation training in North East London, following which she worked as a junior clinical fellow in renal medicine at Hammersmith Hospital.

She has recently entered the Internal Medicine Training (IMT) program in August 2022 at Barts Health NHS trust in North East London, en route to specialising in renal medicine. Alongside working as a doctor, Sahana has a keen interest in research, leadership and teaching in medicine, and is currently studying for the Certificate in Learning and Teaching, an accredited qualification leading to Associate Fellowship of the Higher Education Academy.

Medical Conference - March 2023

A message from Emma Kilburn, alumna and Deputy Head at Tiffin Girls'

We will be holding a medical conference in school on 16th March 2023, as part of our outreach work. The aim of this conference is to support students from local schools, and we will be inviting them to bring a group of students from Years 11 and 12 who are interested in pursuing medicine as a degree. We hope we will be able to share real life experiences of working as a doctor with them, an insight into life as a medical student, and guidance on the interview process and the kinds of things students should be thinking about in the 6th form, in order to prepare themselves.

Some of our Year 13 students will participate in the conference, and we are hoping that some of our alumnae will be able to join us to support. We would love to hear from current medical students, junior doctors, and anyone further on in their career who might be able to attend, ideally in person but possibly online if that is easier. The conference will include some discussion groups, presentations, question and answer sessions, and we would also be really interested in any academic lectures that alumnae may be able to offer.

If you are unable to attend this event but would be interested in supporting our students in their preparations for medical applications, please do get in touch. We hope to organise some parallel sessions for our own students, which could also be pre-recorded. Thank you in advance for your support. If you think you can help, either this year or in the future, please sign up here: https://forms.gle/giwv1b2dcLMY8PaM8
