COMPANY FORMATION

LEGAL ENTITIES

Joint-stock company (a.s. company)

The company's business name must contain the appendage akciová spoločnosť or either of the abbreviated forms.

It may be founded by a single legal entity or by two or more individuals or legal entities (resident or non-resident).

Joint-stock companies may be public or private companies: a public joint-stock company is a company that has had its shares accepted by the Stock Exchange to be traded on the Securities market.

The minimum joint-stock capital requirement is €25,000. An official appraiser must value non-monetary contributions. The company may not buy back its shares from members. A reserve fund is required for incorporation.

Simple joint-stock companies (j.s.a. company)

The new type of collective investment entity, aimed at developing a capital market in Slovakia, is available as of 1 January 2017.

The company's business name must contain the appendage "jednoduchá akciová spoločnosť" or the abbreviated form.

A simple joint-stock company is a hybrid of the elements of a limited liability company and a private joint-stock company. The shares of a simple joint-stock company are not accepted by the Stock Exchange to be traded on the Securities market. The ideal form for risk investing in companies (e.g. start-ups). It may be established by a single person (natural or legal).

The minimum share capital is EUR 1: minimum capital is divided into shares with a nominal value, and the sum of those values is equal to the nominal capital. The nominal value of the share may be denominated in euro cents or a combination of euro cents and euros. The list of shareholders is publicly available. A reserve fund is required for incorporation.

The joint-stock company with variable share capital

Shares in this type of company do not have a nominal value, but the share capital corresponds at any time to the real value of the company's assets. The minimum share capital of a joint-stock company with variable share capital is EUR 125 000.

A joint-stock company with variable share capital may issue and repurchase its own shares. Its share capital may also be increased or reduced without the approval of the General Meeting. It will be also able to issue new shares based on the interest of investors.

Limited liability companies (s.r.o. company)

The most common form in the Slovak Republic. The company's business name must contain the appendage spoločnosť s ručením obmedzeným or either of the two recognised abbreviations: spol. s r.o. or s.r.o.).

The limited-liability company may be established by one person only (an exclusive natural entity), and any natural person may be the single member in a maximum of three companies. The maximum number of members is limited to fifty.

The basic statutory capital is a minimum EUR 5000, and there must also be a contingency reserve from profits of up to 10% of the basic capital. The minimum subscription from a member is EUR 750, and the capital provided may take a monetary or non-monetary form (in which case, an expert valuation is needed,) in money's worth.

Branch office of a foreign company (in Slovak language "organizačná složka podniku zahraničnej osoby)

This is not a separate legal entity. Foreign entities establishing an enterprise or a branch must appoint a director (manager) to head the enterprise or branch and register them in the Commercial Register. This person may be either a Slovak national or a foreigner with a valid temporary Slovak residence permit. Non-nationals who are citizens of EU and OECD Member States are not required to hold temporary Slovak residence permits for the purposes of registering the head of the enterprise or a branch of the foreign company in the Slovak Commercial Register.

COMPANY FORMATION

INCORPORATION PROCEDURE

Companies can be incorporated by a third party invested with Power of Attorney, a fact which can be very appealing, especially for foreign investors. The only condition is that the Power of Attorney is fully notarized and apostilled.

- choosing the name of its new company, which is not used yet in SK. The result of a check at the Commercial Register is the issuing of a name reservation certificate.
- specific documents must be notarized:
 - the Memorandum of Association or a Foundation Deed
 - the Articles of Association for the private limited liability companies, while the stock companies must provide a Deed on Establishment
 - the Memorandum of Association and the Articles of Association

There are two registers where the company must be registered:

Trade register (in Slovak language: „Zivnostensky register“)

Registration into the trade register can take anything between five and ten days.

Generally, business activities can be divided into three categories:

1. "Open" trade licences (wholesale, retail, intermediary activities) that may be performed as of the day of the notification of such business activities to the Trade Licensing Office.
2. Conditioned trade licences for which a special qualification is required or special criteria must be met.
3. Trade certificates for the performance of activities requiring a higher degree of skills or special professional qualification.

General and specific provisions must be met:

- legal capacity, eighteen years of age, and must have integrity
- or depend on the type of company established and those provided for under special laws

Steps to obtain a trade license:

1. Fill up the application form, then tax registration – this can be made on a single application.
2. Submission of documents to prove the applicant's qualification or that of the authorized representative;
3. If an authorized representative is appointed, the certificate of appointment and consent shall also be submitted;
4. Proof of entitlement of the property to be used as the business address;
5. Submission of proof of the non-existence of criminal record;
6. Payment of administrative fees.

When registered into the Trade Register, a unique income tax number and the registration with the Health Insurance Company are provided.

This requirement is set forth under the Trade Licensing Act, the primary law that regulates the conduct of trade and business in Slovakia. Certain professions and businesses (lawyers, pharmacists, interpreters, brokers, banks, insurance companies, broadcasters, agriculture, forestry, etc.) are not subject to the Trade Licensing Act but are regulated by other Slovak regulations.

Once the trade licence has been issued, a company can register at the Country Registry Court. Registration of the company in the Registry Court will take a further two days.

Company Register

Necessary documents to obtain registration:

- filling a standard application at Company Register, which includes:
 - the proof of the uniqueness of the name;
 - a bank certificate stating the capital;
 - the Memorandum of Association;
 - the Deed of Incorporation and the Articles of Association.

Company Register can request additional documents in certain cases.

Registration of the company in the Registry Court will take a further two days.

- Other mandatory company registration:

In the case of having employees:

- registering as an employer within 8 days of the first employment contract
- registering of all employees with the Social Insurance Company before they start working

Another way of starting a company in the Slovak Republic is to purchase a shelf company.

This type of company, also known as a ready-made or aged company, is already registered and available to start operating as soon as the transfer of ownership has been completed.

Most of the shelf companies in Slovakia are registered as limited liability companies and can operate at national and international levels.

ACCOUNTING

ACCOUNTING & RECORD-KEEPING

Slovak accounting legislation requires financial statements to be prepared under Slovak Generally Accepted Accounting Principles (Slovak GAAP) or, where certain specific criteria are met, under International Financial Reporting Standards as adopted by the EU (IFRS). Slovak GAAP is based on the Act on Accounting of 1993, which has subsequently been amended on a number of occasions, most recently in 2003 and 2005 and is broadly in line with IFRS, although there are a number of differences in the treatment of specific issues (e.g., the presentation of financial statements and financial instruments). Chart of accounts Under Slovak GAAP, an entity must record its accounting entries using a prescribed chart of accounts.

Slovak GAAP prescribes a three-digit ledger account code (synthetic accounts) for each asset class, liability, revenue and expense, and optional sub-ledger accounts (analytical accounts). Two-digit ledger account codes (group accounts) for each class are prescribed.

Accounts must be maintained in euros (and assets and liabilities denominated in foreign currencies must also be recorded in that foreign currency), and the books must be kept in Slovak.

Records must be retained for the minimum periods shown below:

- Financial statements and auditor reports – 10 years
- Other accounting documentation, e.g., chart of accounts,
- ledgers, invoices, stock records, etc. – five years

Accounting Period

Companies may select a 12-month accounting period that may be different from the calendar year. A notice to tax authorities at least 15 days before the intended change of the accounting period or within 30 days from the date of establishment of the company is required. Any change in the accounting period may only be effected from the first day of a calendar month. When the accounting period is changed, the period from the end of the preceding accounting period to the beginning of the next accounting period is an accounting period shorter than 12 calendar months. This applies when the accounting unit is being established or dissolved, whereby the first accounting period of the newly established accounting unit commences on the date of its incorporation and the last accounting period of the dissolved accounting unit terminates on the date of its dissolution.

Categories of Accounting Entities

Entities are classified in their respective size category at the date of the financial statements for the accounting period, while the accounting entity has to assess the immediately preceding accounting period as well.

A company shall be classified into size groups as follows:

- a) a micro-accounting entity;
- b) a small accounting entity; or
- c) a large accounting entity and public interest entities

CRITERIA/ACCOUNTING ENTITY	MICRO	SMALL	LARGE
Net turnover (€)	≤ 700,000	> 700,000 and ≤ 8,000,000	> 8,000,000
Net assets (€)	≤ 350,000	> 350,000 and ≤ 4,000,000	> 4,000,000
Employees	≤ 10	> 10 and ≤ 50	> 50

Public interest entities are considered large accounting entities. Branches of foreign entities are considered small accounting entities. An accounting entity meeting the criteria for a micro accounting entity may choose to be treated as a small accounting entity.

The main difference between the requirements relating to entities in these size categories is in the content of the financial statements, and there are some differences in accounting procedure. Specific rules apply to newly incorporated accounting entities.

Financial statements under Slovak GAAP

All entities governed by the Act on Accounting are obliged to prepare financial statements and consolidated financial statements (if applicable) for each financial year. Individual financial statements should be prepared not later than six months after the end of the reporting period, and consolidated financial statements during the subsequent accounting period.

Listed companies are also required to prepare half-yearly and quarterly financial statements as well as consolidated financial statements. The year-end financial statements consist of a balance sheet, profit and loss statement and notes to the financial statements, including a cash-flow statement. The notes must contain detailed information assessing the entity's assets, liabilities, financial position and results. This includes the accounting principles, valuation methods and depreciation rates used in the period.

Additionally, certain companies, for example, listed companies and security traders, can select to prepare individual financial statements following EU-IFRS.

The year-end financial statements must be filled to the Register of Financial Statements within the deadline for filing the tax return in electronic form (obligatory for certain companies) or in written form via tax authorities or the electronic filing room operated by the Slovak Financial Directorate.

Financial statements under IFRS

Individual financial statements

Individual financial statements must be prepared in accordance with IFRS if the entity:

a) Is a company (a.s., s.r.o., v.o.s., k.s.) and if at least two of the following conditions were met in at least two consecutive accounting periods:

- The total value of assets, excluding provisions exceeded €170,000,000.
- The net turnover exceeded €170,000,000.
- The average number of employees exceeded 2,000

A company should continue to prepare financial statements following IFRS even when the above conditions are no longer met in the subsequent accounting periods.

b) Is a bank, insurance company or other entity providing financial services

c) Is required to prepare IFRS financial statements under

Consolidated Financial Statements

All consolidated financial statements shall be prepared according to EU-IFRS, while those companies whose parent companies prepare consolidated financial statements under EU legislation are exempt from this requirement. The exemption does not apply to a parent accounting entity that is at the same time a subsidiary accounting entity and has issued securities that were permitted to be traded on a regulated market of a member state or a state of the European Economic Area.

A parent accounting entity is not required to prepare consolidated financial statements in specific cases based on the individual financial statements (when total net assets, net turnover and the average number of employees do not exceed a certain amount).

The exemption due to the size criteria does not apply to a parent accounting entity if it is a public interest entity or if any of its subsidiaries is a public interest entity.
